OLD JUDGE PRIEST

By IRVIN S. COBB

Irvin Cobb has done much for American literature. Had he done nothing more than create that lovable character, Judge Priest, his service would be conspicuous. OLD JUDGE PRIEST is the title of his new book, drenched with humor, filled with subtle observations—a real Cobb story. The New York Times calls it “an exquisite piece of fiction, sound and appealing, intensely human!” (Net $1.25.) Have you secured your share of the nearly fifty thousand copies of Cobb's SPEAKING OF OPERATIONS—already printed? It's the funniest book Cobb has written, and the public is finding it out! (Net fifty cents.)

A Timely Book of Importance to Every Thinking American

Our Military History

Its Facts and Fallacies

By

Major General Leonard Wood, U.S.A.

By

John Callan O'Laughlin

Imperiled America

The author is a former Assistant Secretary of State, a trained observer and forceful writer. He presents a candid and authoritative view of our past history — diplomatic, military, colonial, financial — with a logical and unsparing interpretation of what the future is preparing for us. Writing from behind the scenes with a full knowledge of what is happening on both sides of the curtain, his conclusions are at times startling. A work of present importance and permanent value.

THIS IS GOING TO BE THE YEAR TO GO TO

American Booksellers' Association Annual Convention

The Convention has been heretofore mainly an Eastern affair. This year it will be in Chicago: There will be new faces — booksellers from Kansas City, Denver, St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Chicago, and other progressive Middle Western bookselling centers.

It promises to be the most representative gathering of American booksellers ever assembled. Will you be there to profit by the exchange of ideas?

CHICAGO MAY 16 - 17 - 18

For information regarding the special train from New York for the accommodation of Eastern booksellers write CHAS. BUTLER, Brentano's, New York City.

For Banquet reservations and further information write FRANK K. REILLY, Chairman of the Chicago Committee on Arrangements, 1006 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

Here is a plaque and a book, all that is required to make the most striking and nifty window display on record. We will send it free if you will write us. Your ingenuity will adapt it to window or inside display. If in a window the color of the background may be grey or black for instance. And you can recommend the book without reserve to the most critical literary folk and those who just want a good novel.

The New York Evening Mail Says:

Miss Tompkins has written a remarkable story which is bound to be heard from. There is humor in it, and pathos, and a keen analysis of character which makes the persons in the book living beings and not mere puppets to a writer's wish.

THE PLIGHT OF THE NEWSPAPERS.

THE increased costs of publication that have affected the book and periodical publishers have not left the publishers of newspapers unscathed. Indeed, since manufacturing cost alone in their case practically always exceeds subscription receipts any marked increase of costs is an extremely serious matter.

It is not surprising, therefore, that at the thirtieth annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association in New York City last week the principal topics of conversation were rising costs and methods of economy. The situation was saved from being much worse only by the amazing recent betterment of newspaper business. Advertising receipts, we are told, for the first three months of this year broke all records, the papers reporting showing increases averaging over 40 per cent. over 1915.

The greatest single expense of the modern newspaper is news paper! And, although newsprint has not gone up as have book and writing stocks it has had the newspapers worrying. Many publishers had long term contracts; others were caught short handed, and 50 per cent. increases in price—which means thousands of dollars a year to the average city newspaper—were not uncommon.

Measures of economy are various. An increasing number of papers are adopting the page of eight 12½ "em" columns as standard instead of the old page of seven 13 "em" columns. Others are cutting margins "to the quick," while still others are making strenuous efforts to condense news, gaining oftentimes in the effectiveness of their reading matter as well as in space. There is a growing tendency, also, to save on extended head lines.

Even more significant and radical were the reports from various sections of the country of "breaks" from the one cent price. Some papers have already gone up to two cents; and a great many more are seriously considering it and almost surely will do so if costs show no decline.

In any upward price tendency the book trade is indirectly but no less vitally interested. It is the one cent newspaper and the five cent periodical, with their postal "privilege" and factitious aid from advertising, that have gone far to "spoil" the book market in this country. Fair competition from newspapers and periodicals books are perfectly able to face. But handicapped in selling price, as they are at present, with a high distribution cost and lack of that advertising revenue on which the cheap periodical mainly depends, books are hard put to hold their own economic place. We, of course, wish the newspapers no ill-fortune, but a little more parity in price competition would be welcome.

WE are glad to be able to reprint in full—save for the omission of the brief sections devoted to foreign conditions—an able summary of the present legal status of fixed prices prepared by Mr. Chas. L. Miller, special counsel of the American Fair Trade League. The statement holds nothing new, perhaps, for diligent readers of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, for every case cited by him—we believe without exception—was fully covered by the WEEKLY at the time of its decision; but it seemed of value to reprint Mr. Miller's clear and concise statement not only to place before the book trade the present legal situation, but also to show the important part the book trade itself has taken in the creation of that situation.

LEGAL STATUS OF THE MAINTENANCE OF UNIFORM RESALE PRICES.

A SUMMARY BY CHARLES L. MILLER, SPECIAL COUNSEL OF THE AMERICAN FAIR TRADE LEAGUE.

THIS statement of what is believed to be the law at the present time in regard to the right of a single manufacturer in a competitive field to designate and maintain a uniform retail price for his product was prepared at the request of the American Fair Trade League. At the outset it should be understood that a brief or argument for standard prices was not desired; and no effort has been made to set forth the advantages of uniform resale prices to the producer, jobber, retailer and consumer, nor has the economic aspect of price maintenance been discussed. What follows is solely what its title indicates—a concise statement of the present legal status of the maintenance of uniform resale prices, as shown by the decisions of the federal and state courts. . . . For the reasons stated infra, the decisions of the state courts are not discussed in detail.

The purpose of the American Fair Trade League in having this brief prepared was not to aid members engaged in litigation with the government or with private litigants; nor to show how to get around the law. The League's intention in distributing it is antithetical to any such purposes. It is to give the members the advantage of having all the decisions on the subject collected by one who has made a special study of the problems of price maintenance, so that traders may know just what the law is and avoid breaking it unintentionally.

The efforts of producers to control the resale price of their articles may be divided into three general classes according to the means adopted to standardize the prices of their products to the consumers.

I. REBATE PLAN.

The method least frequently resorted to is what may be characterized as the "Rebate Plan," whereby the producer promises to refund to dealers maintaining the standard price set by him a portion of the long price paid by them. This, while operating as an inducement to the dealer to resell only at the price named, in no way binds him to do so. This plan has been uniformly upheld by the courts in the few cases in which it has been attacked. It should be noted, however, that the cases dealing with this method of accomplishing resale price maintenance are not recent, and it may be that the doctrine approved therein will be overruled when a similar case is attacked upon the basis of the more recent decisions discussed in a later portion of this article.

In re Greene, 52 Fed. 104 (1892) Held:—An agreement whereby the A. Company promised persons who purchased from its distributing agents that if they would not resell at prices less than those fixed by the company, on being furnished with a certificate of compliance, it would pay a certain rebate on the amount of such purchases, did not constitute a contract in restraint of trade nor violate the Sherman Anti-Trust Law. The court further said that even if the promise could be considered as a binding contract between the parties, the restraint thereby imposed was only partial and reasonable in the protection of the company's business, and was not of the general character necessary to constitute an unlawful contract in restraint of trade. The test in Mogul S. S. Co. vs. McGregor, (1892) App. Cas. 1, was approved.

And in Clark vs. Frank, 17 Mo. App. 602, (1885) it was held:—

A contract whereby a purchaser, in consideration of certain rebates in prices, agrees to maintain a certain price in selling at retail the brand of goods thus purchased, is not a contract in restraint of trade. And the sale at a lower price than that agreed upon is a breach of such contract which precludes such purchaser from claiming the rebate, even though the goods sold below the standard price were purchased from a third person.

Walsh vs. Dwight, 40 App. Div. 513, s. c. 58 N. Y. Supp. 91 (1899), goes even further, holding:

An agreement by a manufacturer with his customers to give them a rebate if they should refuse to sell his article, or articles of rival manufacturers, at less than a certain price, is not in restraint of trade.

See also, John D. Park & Sons Co. vs. National Wholesale Druggists' Association, 175 N. Y. 1, s. c. 67 N. E. Rep. 136 (1903), infra.

There may be a valid legal distinction between this class of cases and those dealing with price maintenance accomplished by the other methods discussed below in that here the dealer is free to "cut prices" if he sees fit to do so. The incentive to maintain the standard price is the extra profit; but the inducement is more in the nature of "moral suasion" than a threat against the non-conforming dealer. This system of merchandizing is, however, practicable only where the manufacturer sells direct to the retailer, and on short terms of credit.

II. BY NOTICE.

The simplest means used by a manufacturer to enforce a uniform retail price on his product has been by placing a notice on each article stating that it may be resold only at a certain price. This was the method commonly used by producers of patented or copyrighted articles; the notice usually stating that a cut price sale would be treated as an infringement of the producer's exclusive rights.

That the right by notice, in the absence of contract limitation or license agreement, to control resale prices was not given by the copyright act was decided by the Supreme Court in Bobbs-Merrill Co. vs. Straus, 210 U. S. 339 (1908). The complainant was the publisher and owner of the copyright upon "The Castaway." In each copy of the novel, immediately below the copyright notice, was printed the following:

"The price of this book at retail is one dollar net. No dealer is licensed to sell it at a less price, and a sale at a less price will be treated as an infringement of the copyright."

The defendants trading as R. H. Macy & Co., having purchased the books with full knowledge of said notice and advertised same for sale at eighty-nine cents the copy, were held not to be bound by the notice. But, as pointed out by Mr. Justice Day, who delivered the opinion of the court, neither the defendants nor the wholesalers from whom they purchased the novels had entered into any agreement to carry out the standard price notice, so the case of a contract limiting the resale price is not there decided.

In the Straus case the Supreme Court suggested a distinction between the rights given by the patent and copyright acts; but this difference was wiped out in Bauer vs. O'Donnell, 229 U. S. 1 (1913) (the Sanatogen case), in which a five to four majority of the Supreme Court held that the patentee, having received the full consideration for his article in the sale to the jobber, a retail "cut-price" sale did not violate any rights given the inventor under the patent laws; and that the manufacturer could not control the resale price of his product by a notice attached thereto licensing it to be resold only at a standard price.

In Bobbs-Merrill Co. vs. Straus, authority to control resale prices, and thus establish and enforce a uniform retail price, was claimed by virtue of the copyright; and in the Sanatogen case the same right was claimed under the patent statutes. All that the Supreme Court decided in these cases was that the exclusive rights given by the statutes to the author and the inventor do not include the right merely by a notice attached to each article, to call upon the courts to enforce a uniform retail price therefor. To the same effect see:

Waltham Watch Co. vs. Keene, 202 Fed. 225 (1913).

U. S. vs. Kellogg Toasted Corn Flake Co., 222 Fed. 725 (1915).

Kellogg Toasted Corn Flake Co. vs. Buck, 208 Fed. 383 (1913).

A patentee may, however, by leasing (not selling) his patented machine, reserve the right to insist upon a fixed resale price as a condition for the transfer of the right to use the machine. Victor Talking Machine Co. vs. Straus (Decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in New York, January, 1916, not yet reported, but reversing the decision of the lower court reported in 222 Fed. 524 (1915)). It is expected that the defendant will make an effort to bring this case before the Supreme Court. At this time, of course, it cannot be foretold whether the Supreme Court will entertain or refuse to entertain the defeated defendant's petition for a review.

III. SYSTEM OF CONTRACTS.

The third method by which manufacturers have sought to accomplish price maintenance is by a system of contracts with the trade. In its simplest form this plan consists of contracts between the manufacturer and wholesalers by the terms of which the latter agree to supply retailers at a stated price, and to sell only to such dealers as will agree with them to maintain the standard retail price. In another simple form the contracts with the jobbers require them to sell only to dealers approved by the producer, with whom the manufacturer contracts directly that, in consideration of their being supplied with his product, they will sell only at the retail price named by the producer. In another variant form, which, however, has been held only colorable (see infra), the contract with the wholesaler purports to make him a distributing agent for the manufacturer.

Under this head it is necessary to distinguish between patented and copyrighted articles on the one hand and secret process and trade-marked articles on the other.

A. PATENTED AND COPYRIGHTED ARTICLES.

As pointed out above, the copyright and patent cases of Bobbs-Merrill Co. vs. Straus (210 U. S. 339) and Bauer vs. O'Donnell (229 U. S. 1) do not decide the right of the holder of the legal monopoly granted by the copyright and patent laws to make valid contracts with his vendees fixing prices for future sales of the protected articles.

The decisions are strictly limited to the questions there presented—the right to control resale prices under patent rights or copyrights without making contracts but merely by notice attached to each article. This is repeatedly emphasized by Justice Day, who delivered both opinions. In the Straus case he uses this language, at page 346:

"The learned counsel for the appellant in this case in the argument at bar disclaims relief because of any contract, and relies solely upon the copyright statutes, and rights therein conferred."

Again on page 350:

"The precise question, therefore, in this case is, does the sole right to vend (named in Sec. 4952) secure to the owner of the copyright the right, after a sale of the book to a purchaser, to restrict future sales of the book at retail, to the right to sell it at a certain price per copy, because of a notice in the book that a sale at a different price will be treated as an infringement, which notice has been brought home to one undertaking to sell for less than the named sum? We do not think the statute can be given such a construction, and it is to be remembered that this is purely a question of statutory construction. There is no claim in this case of contract limitation, nor license agreement controlling the subsequent sales of the book."

Bauer vs. O'Donnell presented, in respect of a patented article, "Sanatogen," facts very similar to the copyright case (Bobbs-Merrill Co. vs. Straus), and the Court states the proposition for decision thus, at page 11:

"The question, therefore, now before this Court for judicial determination is: May a patentee by notice limit the price at which future retail sales of the patented article may be made, such article being in the hands of a retailer by purchase from a jobber, who has paid to the agent of the patentee the full price asked for the article sold?"

Again at page 16 Mr. Justice Day says:

"The real question is whether in the exclusive right secured by statute to 'vend' a patented article, there is included the right, by notice, to dictate the price at which subsequent sales of the article may be made. The patentee relies solely upon the notice quoted to control future prices in the resale by the purchaser of an article said to be of great utility and highly desirable for general use. The appellee and the jobbers from whom he purchased were neither the agents nor the licensees of the patentee."

In U. S. vs. Keystone Watch Case Co., 218 Fed. 502 (1915), the defendant made direct agreements with the jobbers to whom it sold a watch, material parts of which were covered by valid patents, fixing the price at which they might sell to retailers; and also by a mere notice on the boxes in which the watch was sold to the retailers attempted to control the price at which they should sell. The court held that the agreements with its direct vendees were within the manufacturer's rights under the patent law; but that when it sold to the jobber it had fully exercised its right, and its notice to subsequent purchasers was an unlawful restraint of trade. The law on this phase of the case is thus stated by McPherson, C. J., at page 514 (italics ours):

"The defendant company attempted to restrict the prices at which the wholesaler or jobber might sell to the retailer, and to this end made a direct agreement with the jobber. As we understand the decisions, such an agreement was within the company's lawful rights. Certain material parts of the Howard watch were covered by bona fide patents taken out and used for a lawful purpose, and as the owner of these patents the company had the right to make a direct agreement with the jobbers whereby a minimum price was fixed at which the jobber might sell. Bement vs. Harrow Co., 186 U. S. 70; Henry vs. Dick Co., 224 U. S. 1. But the company went further, and by mere notice to the retailer, accompanying the box in which the watch was sold by the jobber, attempted to fix the minimum price at which the retailer might sell to the consumer. No direct agreement was made with the retailer. When the company sold the watch to the jobber it had fully exercised its right to vend, and had no right to use the notice subsequently given in order to control the price at which the retailer might sell. Bauer vs. O'Donnell, 229 U. S. 1."

The right of a patentee to contract with his immediate vendees fixing the resale price of his product is sustained in the very recent opinion of Geiger, D. J., of the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of Illinois in American Graphophone Co. and Columbia Graphophone Co. vs. Boston Store of Chicago (New York Law Journal, Sept. 27, 1915). That was a bill in equity by a patentee manufacturer and its sole sales agent against a dealer to enforce a price maintenance contract and to enjoin price cutting. The motion to dismiss the bill was denied, and the defendant ordered to show cause why an injunction should not be granted. The Court thus states the question presented by the pleadings:

"Can a patentee, upon a sale of a patented article, by contract require of his immediate vendee the observance of price restrictions upon resale?"

This question is answered in the affirmative, the Court holding that Bauer vs. O'Donnell (229 U. S. 1) has not overruled Henry vs. Dick (224 U. S. 1), Bement vs. Harrow Co. (186 U. S. 70), Victor vs. the Fair (123 Fed. 424) and certain anti-trust cases, which involve patents and patent rights so far as they permit a patentee, while exercising any of his three co-ordinate rights, by a proper amendment, to reserve such portion thereof as he sees fit. Judge Geiger further concludes:

"That an agent or vendee of a patentee may, by direct covenant or agreement, be bound to the observance of price restriction imposed as a condition upon which exclusive right of sale by the patentee is being exercised."

This latest decision is in accord with the cases cited supra on the ineffectiveness of a mere notice to control the retail price, the first conclusion being:

"That Dick vs. Henry and Bement vs. Harrow Co., Victor vs. Fair and the other cases supra, so far as they permit a patentee, while exercising any of his three co-ordinate monopoly rights, by proper amendment to reserve such portion thereof as he sees fit, have not been overruled by Bauer vs. O'Donnell, but that after he has once allowed the patented article to pass out of the monopoly, without committing by proper agreement the one to whom the article comes to the observance of an obligation on his part, he cannot then recall it or claim that by a notice he burdened the article with such reservation."

If these decisions are sound, and as pointed out above, there is nothing in the Supreme Court cases contra, the patentee, and presumably the proprietor of a patented or copyrighted article, who sells directly to the retailer can legally control the price at which that retailer must sell the product to the consumer. Thus the manufacturer of an automobile covered by valid patents can maintain a uniform retail price therefor by contracts with his dealers, if he sells to the retailers direct.

In Bement vs. National Harrow Co., 186 U. S. 70 (1902), the Supreme Court passed favorably on such contracts. That was an action for damages for the violation of certain contracts covering the manufacture and sale of a patented article. Among the numerous terms of the license agreement were the following:

(3) The defendant agreed that it would not during the continuance of the license sell its product manufactured under the license at a less price or on more favorable terms of payment and delivery to the purchaser than was set forth in schedule B., which contained a statement of the prices and terms of sale under the license and the discounts allowable in the various States.

(4) The plaintiff reserved the right to decrease the selling price and to make the terms of payment and delivery more favorable to the purchasers.

The Court held that these contracts did not violate the Sherman Law; and affirmed the judgment of the Court of Appeals of the State of New York sustaining the contracts and awarding damages for their breach by the defendant. That the legality of such contracts was squarely before the Supreme Court is shown by the following extract from the statement of the case by Mr. Justice Peckham, at page 82:

"Those questions are eight in number, the fourth of which is: 'Whether or not the contracts A. and B. are valid under the Act of Congress approved July 2, 1890, Ch. 647 of the first session of the Fifty-first Congress.' This is the only Federal question raised and appearing in the record."

The Supreme Court squarely faced the fact that the contracts in suit looked to the maintenance of a uniform sale price. On page 92, Peckham, J., says:

"The contracts plainly look to the sale, and they also determine the price of the article sold, throughout the United States."

Passing on the stipulation as to the price to be demanded, the Court held, at page 93:

"The provision in regard to the price at which the licensee would sell the article manufactured under the license was also an appropriate and reasonable condition. It tended to keep up the price of the implements manufactured and sold, but that was only recognizing the nature of the property dealt in, and providing for its value as far as possible. This the parties were legally entitled to do. The owner of a patented article can, of course, charge such price as he may choose, and the owner of a patent may assign it, or sell the right to manufacture and sell the article patented upon the condition that the assignee shall charge a certain amount for such article."

See, also, Henry vs. A. B. Dick Co., 224 U. S. 1 (1912). That case involved the right of a patentee to restrict the make of unpatented articles that should be used with the machine sold. A majority of the Court held the restriction valid on the ground that the patentee had parted with a qualified property right in the article, although it was conceded that except for the notice limiting the use to be made thereof, the patentee had made an unconditional sale of the machine. The majority was composed of Justices Lurton, McKenna, Holmes and Van Deventer; a strong dissent was written by Mr. Chief Justice White, in which Justices Hughes and Lamar concurred. This case was argued after the death of Mr. Justice Harlan and during the absence of Mr. Justice Day. After this decision the case of Bauer vs. O'Donnell, supra, was argued before a full bench, Mr. Justice Pitney having been appointed to succeed Mr. Justice Harlan. He and Mr. Justice Day concurred in the views expressed by the Chief Justice in his dissenting opinion in the Dick case, and they, with the minority in the earlier case, now became the majority, and the four Justices who had prevailed in the Dick decision became the dissenters in the Sanatogen case.

B. GOODS NOT PROTECTED BY PATENT OR COPYRIGHT BUT USUALLY BEARING A TRADE-MARK.

So-called secret process and branded goods may be considered together since the decisions in Park vs. Hartman, 153 Fed. 24 (1907) and Dr. Miles Medical Co. vs. Park & Sons, 164 Fed. 803 (1908) affirmed in 220 U. S. 373 (1911), in which cases the late Justice Lurton, then Circuit Judge, held that the fact that an article of commerce is sold under a trade-name or in a trade dress affords it no exemption from the common-law or statutory rules against restraint of trade; and, further, that the exemption from the common-law rule against monopoly and restraint of trade, and the provisions of the federal anti-trust act in favor of articles made under a patent or covered by a copyright, does not extend to articles made by a secret process or medicine compounded under a private formula.

As the conclusions of the federal and state courts are not in harmony on the legality of such contracts, it will be convenient to consider first the federal cases, and secondly the decisions of the state tribunals.

I. IN THE FEDERAL COURTS.

The right of a manufacturer to enforce as against a retailer the provisions of a system of contracts made with jobbers and retailers generally, fixing the resale price of the manufacturer's product, was first seriously questioned in the Federal Courts in 1907 in John D. Park & Sons Co. vs. Hartman, 153 Fed. 24. In that case and in Dr. Miles Medical Co. vs. John D. Park & Sons Co., 164 Fed. 803 (1908), the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit held a system of such contracts to be unlawful, and therefore unenforceable, on the ground that they contravene the common-law rules against monopolies and restraints of trade, and also (as applied to interstate commerce) the Act of July 2, 1890, c. 647, 26 Stat. 209 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, P. 3200), commonly known as the Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

The manufacturers of "Peruna" in the Hartman case and of proprietary medicines in the Miles case had contracts with a large part of the wholesale and retail druggists of the country stipulating the prices at which their products should be sold. This system of merchandizing was defended not so much on the ground of a necessary protection to the business of the producer, though that was suggested, but as a special right inherent in the manufacturer of a "trade-secret" article. In both the Miles and Hartman cases the proprietor of a "secret process" article claimed the right to enforce the maintenance of a retail price established by him on analogy to the right, then generally recognized, of a patentee to control the resale prices of the article covered by his patent.

Such systems of contracts were declared unenforceable on the ground that taken together and considered as a system of merchandizing they constituted an unreasonable restraint of trade (see pages 40 and 45 of the opinion in the Hartman case, 153 Fed. Rep.; and pages 400 to 408 of the Miles case in the Supreme Court, 220 U. S.), the articles covered by the contracts not being outside the common-law rules, as noted above.

These decisions overruled the earlier cases in the Federal Courts, and were contra to the preponderance of authority in the Appellate Courts of the States in which the question had been adjudicated.

In these cases the right to control resale prices was not limited to articles protected by the copyright or patent laws; it extended probably to all articles.

Ice Co. vs. Parker, 21 How. Pr. 302 (N. Y.). and certainly to products sold under a trade-mark.

The law in the Federal Courts as applied to trade marked and secret process articles was settled by Dr. Miles Medical Co. vs. John D. Park & Sons Co., 220 U. S. 373 (1911), where Mr. Justice Hughes, speaking for a majority of the Supreme Court, held:

"A system of contracts between a manufacturer and wholesale and retail dealers by which the manufacturer attempts to control not merely the prices at which his agents may sell his products, but the prices for all sales by all dealers at wholesale or retail, whether by purchasers or sub-purchasers, thus fixing the amount which the consumer will pay, eliminates all competition and amounts to an unreasonable and therefore unlawful restraint of trade both at common law, and, as it affects interstate commerce, under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. Such contracts are therefore invalid and unenforceable."

In a strong dissenting opinion Mr. Justice Holmes lays bare the fallacy of the contention that to allow resale price maintenance on branded goods would tend to monopoly and higher prices; and of the corollary presumed therefrom, that the purchasing public is the gainer by predatory price cutting. He thus succinctly states his position, at page 412:

"I cannot believe that in the long run the public will profit by this court permitting knaves to cut reasonable prices for some ulterior purpose of their own and thus to impair, if not to destroy, the production and sale of articles which it is assumed to be desirable that the public should be able to get."

II. IN THE STATE COURTS.

The courts of last resort in several States have sanctioned uniform resale prices, upholding agreements between manufacturers and dealers to attain that end in law, and enforcing them by injunctive relief against the recalcitrant price cutter in equity.

And in Commonwealth vs. Grinstead, 111 Ky. 203, s. c. 63 S. W. Rep. 427 (1901), the Court of Appeals of Kentucky held that price maintenance agreements did not violate the criminal provisions of the so-called conspiracy or anti-trust statute.

In Michigan price maintenance has been condemned by the Supreme Court largely on the strength of Judge Lurton's decisions in the Hartman and Miles cases in the Circuit Court of Appeals, referred to above.

W. H. Hill Co. vs. Gray and Worcester, 163 Worcester, 163 Mich. 12, s. c. 127 N. W. Rep. 803 (1910).

It will be noticed that the opinions in D. Ghirardelli Co. vs. Hunsicker and Fisher Flouring Mills Co. vs. Swanson, supra, were delivered since the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in Dr. Miles Med. Co. vs. Park, supra, and these State courts refused to follow the latter case. Both of these decisions are able expositions of the price maintenance principle; the Washington case being particularly valuable because the question was before that court for the first time, and was decided on sound economic grounds.

The Legislature of New Jersey recently passed an Act (Chapter 210, Laws of 1913) to prevent unfair competition and unfair trade practices, the terms of which would seem to be broad enough to cover price cutting of branded goods for an ulterior purpose. The provisions of the Act follow:

1. It shall be unlawful for any merchant, firm or corporation, for the purpose of attracting trade for other goods, to appropriate for his or their own ends a name, brand, trademark, reputation or good will of any maker in whose product said merchant, firm, or corporation deals, or to discriminate against the same, by depreciating the value of such product in the public mind, or by misrepresentation as to value or quality, or by price inducement, or by unfair discrimination between buyers, or in any other manner whatsoever, except in cases where said goods do not carry any notice prohibiting such practice, and excepting in case of a receiver's sale, or a sale by a concern going out of business.

2. Any person, firm, or corporation violating this Act shall be liable at the suit of the maker of such branded or trade-marked goods, or any other injured person, to an injunction against such practices; and shall be liable in such suit to all damages directly or indirectly caused to the maker by such practices, which said damages may be increased threefold, in the discretion of the court.

At its last session the Legislature amended this Act by striking out "for the purpose of attracting trade for other goods" (Chapter 376, Laws of 1915), which relieves the complainant of the necessity of proving the motive of the unfair trader. The amendment also provides that: "The notice prohibiting such practice shall contain a copy of this section and forbid the violation of any of its provisions."

These State decisions have not been discussed in detail because they would govern in only a small percentage of cases, since most, if not all, the manufacturers of to-day are engaged in interstate as distinguished from intrastate commerce, and price maintenance cases would get into the Federal Courts.

IV. THE TRADING STAMP AND RAILROAD TICKET CASES AND THOSE RELATING TO THE DISTRIBUTION OF NEWS ARE NOT APPLICABLE.

Although we believe that the trading stamp and railroad ticket cases, such as Sperry & Hutchinson vs. Mechanics' Clothing Co., 135 Fed. 833, Nashville Ry. Co. vs. McConnell, 82 Fed. 65, and Bitterman vs. R. R. Co., 207 U. S. 205, rest upon the peculiar character of the property rights involved, and are not authorities for the enforcement of standard prices on ordinary articles of commerce, it may be well to mention those lines of cases in which the price maintenance principle is carried out. However, it should be borne in mind that neither concerns the buying and selling of articles of general commerce; and both relate to things in the nature of contracts personal in character, and not to things which can ever become the subject of general trade and traffic. Like all contracts personal in their nature, they can be transferred and assigned only with the consent of both contracting parties and only upon the conditions to which the contracting parties assent.

Likewise the cases relating to the distribution of news and information rest upon the peculiar kind of property rights involved. So long as one who by his own industry has gathered news or information does not disclose it, he cannot be compelled to make publication. The matter is his own in as true a sense as a trade secret or private formula, or the composition of an author. A general publication results in the destruction of its marketable value. Hence the policy of the law is to prevent a public disclosure by one who has contracted for a restricted use.

Exchange Tel. Co. vs. Gregory (1896) 1 Q. B. 147.
Board of Trade of Chicago vs. Christie, 198 U. S. 235 (1905).

Dodge vs. Construction Information Co., 183 Mass. 62 (1903).

In all these cases the courts protect the news gatherer against the piratical use of his peculiar property. A similar protection is extended to the chemist who has discovered a secret formula. Equity will prevent one who has fraudulently obtained the secret from using it to compete with its rightful owner. But it does not follow that because a process or formula will be protected against betrayal by those to whom it has been communicated in confidence under a contract for a restricted use, a system of contracts for the control of all sales and subsales of the medicine will be outside of the rules against restraint of trade simply because it is the product of such secret formula. The preparation when ready for the market and the formula are two separate and distinct things, and may have distinct ownership. So the cases analogous to the news cases are those in which a secret process or formula is protected; not cases in which the owner of the secret is attempting to control all resales of the finished product.

V. CALLING THE DEALERS AGENTS WILL NOT AVAIL.

It will not avail the producer to call the distributors "agents" where they in reality purchase the goods, and the transaction has all the elements of a sale as distinguished from a bailement.

Dr. Miles Med. Co. vs. Park, 164 Fed. 803, affirmed in 220 U. S. 373.

The court will search for the substance and the actual effect of the transaction; and if the restraint of trade is direct and unreasonable, no disguise will save it.

U. S. vs. Keystone Watch Case Co., 218 Fed. 502. See also, Victor Talking Machine Co. vs. Straus, 222 Fed. 524 (1915), in which a so-called "lease" was construed to have been a "sale." But the Court of Appeals has just reversed that decision and held that the transaction was a "lease," and that the provisions of the lease were enforceable. The Appellate decision has not yet been reported.

The rule above stated must not, however, be understood as applying to genuine selling agencies whereby the sale of the article is legally controlled by the producer until it reaches the consumer.

"In the first place by a slight change in the form of the contract the plaintiff can accomplish the result in a way that would be beyond successful attack. If it should make the retail dealers also agents in law as well as in name and retain the title until the goods left their hands I cannot conceive that even the present enthusiasm for regulating the prices to be charged by other people would deny that the owner was acting within his rights."

Holmes, J., (dissenting opinion) in Dr. Miles Med. Co. vs. Park, 220 U. S. 373, at page 411:

"That a patentee may create selling agencies and control the price goes without saying." Waltham Watch Co. vs. Keene, 202 Fed. 225 (1913), at page 233.

If the dealer pays for the goods before disposing of them and does not have the right to return them, calling him an agent does not give the manufacturer the right to control the resale price; but where the goods remain the property of the producer until sold to the consumer, which necessarily means that the dealer can return the goods at any time, title has not passed out of the maker, and he may lawfully say at what price his agents shall sell his product. In the latter case the dealer is in the position of a salesman for the manufacturer; and no court has questioned the right of the maker to say at what price he will sell his goods in the first instance.

"The tobacco company and its competitors were not dealing in articles of prime necessity, like corn and coal, nor were they rendering public or quasi-public service, like railroad and gas corporations. Each of them, therefore, had the right to refuse to sell its commodities at any price. Each had the right to fix the prices at which it would dispose of them and the terms upon which it would contract to sell them. Each of them had the right to determine with what persons it would make its contracts of sale,

... The exercise of these undoubted rights is essential to the very existence of free competition, and so long as their exercise by any person or corporation in no way deprives competitors of the same rights, or restricts them in the use of these rights, it is difficult to perceive how their exercise can constitute any restriction upon competition or any restraint upon interstate trade."

VI. CLAYTON ACT.

The only effect of the Act of Congress approved October 15, 1914 (C. 321, Paragraph 2, 38 Stat. 730), commonly known as the Clayton Act, on the point now under discussion is to forbid discrimination in prices between purchasers "where the effect of such discrimination may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce." It may be here noted that this recent amendment or amplification of the anti-trust laws does not compel manufacturers or jobbers to sell to everyone; on the contrary the same section provides that persons engaged in interstate commerce may select their own customers in bona fide transactions and not in restraint of trade. Section 2 of this Act reads:

"It shall be unlawful for any person engaged in interstate commerce in the course of such commerce, either directly or indirectly, to discriminate in price between different purchasers of commodities . . . where the effect of such discrimination may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce. Provided, That nothing herein contained shall prevent discrimination in price between purchasers of commodities on account of differences in the grade or quantity of the commodity sold or that makes only due allowance for difference in the cost of selling or transportation, or discrimination in price in the same or different communities made in good faith to meet competition; And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall prevent persons engaged in selling goods, wares or merchandise in commerce from selecting their own customers in bona fide transactions and not in restraint of trade."

The meaning of the last clause, giving the right to select customers, is thus construed by Hough, D. J., in a note to his opinion in Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. vs. Cream of Wheat Co., 224 Fed. 566 (1915), on page 572:

"It would have been simpler to say that vendors may select their own bona fide customers. I think the intent is to exclude from the exception pretended sales, e. g. consignments to undisclosed agents; and perhaps sales coupled with an attempted condition subsequent."

In this, the first case interpreting the Clayton Act, it was held that the refusal of the manufacturer of an unpatented article, which is not a necessity of life, whose only monopoly is in his trade-name, to sell to a dealer who retails the article below the standard price, while to a limited extent it lessens competition, is not an unreasonable restraint of trade nor is it unlawful under the Clayton Act as a price discrimination, and does not entitle the would-be purchaser to injunctive relief under section 16 of the Act. On the contrary, says Judge Hough, the effect of an injunction compelling the manufacturer to sell to the cut-price dealer would be to restrain trade by making it impossible for other dealers to handle the article except at a loss, and thus give to the business parasite a monopoly.

Construing section 2 as a whole, the court holds that the last proviso reads in effect that a "vendor may select his own bona fide customers providing the effect of such selection is not to substantially and unreasonably restrain trade"; and that the refusal of a manufacturer to sell his product to a dealer who avowedly uses it in a manner which injures and lessens the trade of the maker cannot be said to be an unreasonable restraint of trade nor a violation of the statute.

This case was affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals, Second Circuit, Lacombe, Cox and Rogers, C. JJ., November 10, 1915, not yet reported.

VII. REFUSING TO SUPPLY PRICE CUTTER.

The only case flatly raising the right of a single manufacturer to refuse to sell his product to a dealer who was injuring the maker's business and good-will is Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. vs. Cream of Wheat Co., 224 Fed. 566 (1915). In that case the manufacturer of a well-known breakfast food refused to fill further orders of the plaintiff company because the latter persisted in selling the defendant's product below the standard retail price. The Cream of Wheat Company also sent out circulars to the jobbing trade, pointing out the "cut rate" practices of the plaintiff, and asking the recipients to see to it "that no quantity (of Cream of Wheat), at any price, shall reach, directly or indirectly, the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., to enable them to continue their present menace to the legitimate trade."

By its printed sales plan the defendant held itself out as refusing to sell to consumers, retailers, or chain or department stores, i. e., it purported to sell only to wholesalers; nevertheless it sold to the system of chain stores conducted by the plaintiff at quantity prices after the issuance of its new sales plan, and continued to do so up to the time of the refusal complained of in the bill. The scheme of merchandizing Cream of Wheat is thus summarized by Judge Hough, at page 569:

"It reserved the right to refuse to sell to anybody who failed to comply with any request made, and deemed by defendant beneficial to itself, the 'trade at large' or the 'interests of the consumer'; and announced, as its policy, that it would 'confine our sales exclusively to wholesalers.' Sales, however, once made, were absolute and the transaction closed. Sale was to imply no agreement to maintain or fix any price on a resale—nevertheless, defendant requested that retail prices be kept at the level recommended by it."

Then follows this comment by the Court, showing clearly that the defendant meant to enforce the maintenance of its established prices:

"This request, taken in conjunction with the reserved right to cease selling to any one who did not comply with requests from the same source, was in effect saying plainly enough: keep up the retail price or we will stop supplying you, if we think such stoppage profitable. I do not suppose that this sales scheme was a contract, or anything enforceable against defendant, but it serves to show a professed state of mind."

The defendant's method of standardizing

the price of its product is thus epitomized by Lacombe, C. J., in the opinion of the Circuit Court of Appeals affirming Judge Hough's decision:

"To each purchaser from it, it sends a circular requesting such purchaser to sell to the retail trade only at a price of $4.50 per case; adding to this request the statement that it does not intend to waive the right to refuse at any time to supply any dealer who shall fail to comply with any request made by it, the infringement of which defendant may deem prejudicial to the interests of the consumer, to defendant's own business, or to the trade at large."

The prayers of the bill were (1) that the said plan of sales and system of embargo be adjudged illegal, and that the defendant had violated the Sherman Anti-Trust Law and the Clayton Act; and (2) "that defendant be enjoined and prohibited from enforcing and carrying out said plan or system of sales or from enforcing or attempting to enforce said embargo by means of said boycotting, blacklisting or otherwise and from thereby in any manner or to any extent cutting off the plaintiff's supply of said article 'Cream of Wheat' within the jurisdiction of the United States." The District Court refused the motion for an injunction in all its parts, and the Court of Appeals affirmed the decision of the lower court in an opinion handed down November 10, 1915, not yet reported.

On the right of the manufacturer of an article not a necessity of life to refuse to deal with the price-cutter, the Court has this to say, at page 574:

"Numerous individuals and corporations have been enjoined from restraining the trade of other people, no matter how flourishing the offender's trade might be, nor how greatly the general volume of trade has increased during the period of restraint. But never before has it been urged that if J. S. made enough of anything to supply both Doe and Roe, and sold it all to Doe, refusing even to bargain with Roe, for any reason or no reason, such conduct gave Roe a cause of action. If Congress has sought to give him one, the gift is invalid, because the statute takes from one person for the private use of another the first person's private property."

"Using the words 'sell' or 'sale' conceals the issue. If a man prefers to keep what he has, an offer of money to save the taking thereof does not prevent such taking from being confiscation. The Cream of Wheat Co. is a purely private concern, except as regulated by its creating law, it is an ordinary merchant whose business is affected by no public use whatever. The statute as construed by plaintiff descends upon that private merchant, and commands him to make a contract by which he transfers his property for a price but against his will. The contract and the price are legally mere surpluses—the constitutional violation lies in the compulsion, whereby he is deprived of his property for a private purpose. If defendant's actual scheme of interstate business is unlawful, the United States certainly, and now perhaps an individual plaintiff, can put it out of business; but neither the nation nor any individual can take away its property with or without compensation for the private use of anyone."

Judge Lacombe uses even stronger language in upholding this right to select customers for any reason or for no reason:

"Much has been said about the reason why defendant ceased to treat complainant as an exception to its rule (to sell only to jobbers); failure of the latter to live up to some arrangement, etc., etc. All that seems to be wholly immaterial. . . . We had supposed that it was elementary law that a trader could buy from whom he pleased and sell to whom he pleased, and that his selection of seller and buyer was wholly his own concern. 'It is a part of a man's civil rights that he be at liberty to refuse business relations with any person whomsoever, whether the refusal rests upon reason, or is the result of whim, caprice, prejudice or malice.' Cooley on Torts, p. 278.

"Before the Sherman Act it was the law that a trader might reject the offer of a proposing buyer for any reason that appealed to him; it might be because he did not like the other's business methods, or because he had some personal difference with him political, racial or social. That was purely his own affair, with which nobody else had any concern. Neither the Sherman Act nor any decision of the Supreme Court construing the same, nor the Clayton Act has changed the law in this particular. We have not yet reached the stage where the selection of a trader's customers is made for him by the government."

These decisions are in accord with many cases recognizing the inherent right of refusing business, but which bear no other relation to the facts in the case under discussion.

Straus vs. American Publishers' Association, 231 U. S. 222 (1913), is not an authority against this right of an individual to refuse to sell to the price-cutter, because that case involved a combination of publishers representing 95 per cent. of the books published in the United States, and 90 per cent. of the book trade. The case got into the Supreme Court by a writ of error to review a judgment of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, rendered on remittitur from the Court of Appeals. To understand the question before the Federal Court it is necessary to examine the reports of the case in the New York State Courts (83 N. Y. Supp. 271; 177 N. Y. 473; 111 N. Y. Supp. 830; 193 N. Y. 496; 199 N. Y. 548). Without going into a discussion of the facts, suffice it to say that all the Supreme Court there decided was that the agreement among the defendants, found by the State Court to be unlawful as applied to uncopyrighted books—the sale of books of any kind, at any price, to dealers condemned by the terms of the agreement, being practically prohibited—was not outside of the Sherman Act as to copyrighted books.

This case clearly shows the importance of distinguishing between price fixing by a combination—whether of manufacturers or retailers is immaterial so far as the effect on the public is concerned—and price maintenance by an individual producer in a competitive field.

It is believed that the decision in the Cream of Wheat case is sound. The right, so strenuously claimed by the price-cutter, to be unmolested in the use and disposition of his property, is not shared by him alone. It is likewise a right of the manufacturer; and if he goes no farther than necessary to protect this right from invasion and does not act with malice towards the price-cutter, nor with the primary intention of injuring him, the latter has no right of action against the producer. The fact that self-protection on the part of the manufacturer may cause some harm to the price-cutter is not controlling if the harm is but incidental to the proper and necessary protection of the business of the maker.

"There is no place in any system of jurisprudence yet devised for the principle that a man may be compelled to sell his goods or his labor to one with whom he does not wish to deal, merely because his refusal to do so may cause loss to him who wants them."

The maxim sic utere tuo ut alienum non laedas (make such use of that which is yours as not to injure another's property) should apply with equal force to both parties. This reasoning applies to requests by the manufacturer to his vendees not to sell the former's article to the trade pirate as well as to refusals to deal with him directly.

VIII. CIRCULARS TO THE TRADE.

In his decision in the Cream of Wheat case (224 Fed. 566), Judge Hough thus disposes of the plaintiff's contention that the circulars sent out by the defendant, notifying the trade of the cut price practices of the plaintiff, and requesting that its supply of defendant's product be cut off, amounted to an embargo or boycott, at page 575:

"There is no proof that defendant refused or threatened to refuse to sell to anyone who sold to plaintiff; it did request its chosen customers not to deal with plaintiff.

"If it had good right to refuse dealings itself with plaintiff, and without malice asked other people to do the same thing so far only as Cream of Wheat was concerned, defendant was within its rights."

Particular attention is called to the first paragraph in the above quotation. There was no evidence that the defendant did more than "request" its jobbers not to sell Cream of Wheat to the plaintiff. Dealers were urged for their own good not to supply the price-cutter; but they were not threatened nor intimidated. There was nothing to show an intention on the part of the defendant to refuse to deal with jobbers who choose to sell the defendant's product to the plaintiff.

That such notices as were sent out by the defendant in this case do not constitute an illegal boycott is clear.

RESUME.

From the foregoing statement of the law, these propositions would seem to be established:

1. The so-called "Rebate Plan" has been upheld in the few cases in which it has been attacked, but the authority of those cases is weakened by the later Federal Court decisions on the legality of standard price agreements between a single manufacturer and his customers.

2. The Supreme Court of the United States has held a system of contracts between a producer and a large number of wholesale and retail dealers fixing the resale prices of an article not protected by copyright or letters patent to be an unreasonable, and therefore unlawful, restraint of trade both at common law and under the Sherman Act; and such contracts are therefore unenforceable in the Federal Courts. The Appellate Courts of several States have sustained such contracts. Calling the dealers agents will not avail the manufacturer where the transaction is a sale as distinguished from a bailment.

3. The holder of a patent or copyright may by contract with his immediate vendees control the terms on which they shall resell the protected article; but this cannot be accomplished by a mere notice. Whether a patentee may legally contract with retailers who purchase through jobbers, has not been decided. That sub-vendees having no contract with the producer are not bound by a resale price notice attached to the patented or copyrighted article, has been decided.

4. A manufacturer may lawfully refuse to sell his product to anyone for any reason or for no reason; and he may notify the trade of his decision and request his customers not to supply his article to the person with whom he declines to deal, in the absence of any coercion or threats upon the dealers if they choose to deal with the undesirable trader.

G. H. PUTNAM OPPOSES OLDFIELD BILL BEFORE HOUSE COMMITTEE.

THE new Ogilvie Bill, which bears the name of Mr. Oldfield, the ex-chairman of the Committee, came up for a hearing before the House Committee on Patents on May 3. This bill, the old Levy bill, was introduced on May 2, 1914, again on January 23, 1915, and again, as H. R. 3053, in the present session. The notice of the present hearing was so short that it proved practicable to secure representatives from but a few houses, J. B. Lippincott Co., Doubleday, Page & Co., Funk & Wagnalls Co., and Harper & Brothers. Eric Schuler was present at the hearing in behalf of the Authors' League of America. He stated that the authors were unanimous in their opposition to the bill. He laid stress particularly upon the importance for the authors of preventing the use of their names for material for which they had no responsibility.

George Haven Putnam, secretary of the American Publishers' Copyright League, made the following statement before the Committee in opposition to the bill:—

I am here on behalf of the book and periodical publishers of the United States and of their clients, the authors, to ask you to prevent the enactment of House Bill No. 3053. The bill proposes an amendment to the existing copyright statute as follows:

"Upon the expiration of the copyright of a book, or the renewal thereof, should the same be renewed, there shall exist no superior rights of any nature whatsoever in the publisher or former proprietor thereof to the matter which has been the subject of copyright or to the name or title thereof, but both the matter which has been the subject of copyright and its name or title shall fall into the public domain and thereafter be forever free to the unrestricted use of the public."

I submit as the first objection to the proposed amendment that it is not germane to the copyright law. If there were any ground for such a measure as is proposed, the measure should find place in some law other than that which has to do with the control of copyrighted property. The copyright statute is concerned only with the protection of material which is in itself copyrightable, and this concern or control is limited to a specific term of years. Such material, in advance of the beginning of the copyright term and after this term has expired, is subject not to the provisions of the copyright statute, but to the precedents established under the common law. The amendment starts with the assumption that it is dealing with material, a book for instance, after the expiration of the term of copyright.

I contend that such book, or other article, cannot after the expiration of the copyright term be affected by the provisions of a law which has to do with the subject only during the continuation of such term. The Register of Copyrights, who, if I understand rightly, is the official adviser of this Committee on matters connected with copyright law, has given an opinion in line with the contention here maintained by myself, to the effect that the proposed amendment is not germane to copyright, and that the courts would so hold. This Committee represents for Congress, and for the country as a whole, the conclusions arrived at by men who are assumed to have made themselves experts in the framing and interpretation of laws relating to copyrights and to patents.

I respectfully submit that your honorable body ought not to place itself in the position of confusing the copyright law with an addition which when tested in the courts will be thrown out as not pertinent, and as tending to confuse the working of the copyright statute.

The amendment has for its purpose the putting to one side of a long series of precedents established by decisions of the courts in England and in the United States, for the protection, under the principles of common law, of continuing labor and of continuing investments.

Such labor and investments produce from time to time, in connection with an article, what is called a "good will property." It is the theory of the courts that it is to the interests of the community, as well as a matter of justice to those who invest time and money, that such investments shall be encouraged.

A "good will" property is built up in connection with an article, whether it be a book, or a pen, or a production like chocolate of a certain character and quality (such, for instance, as Baker's Chocolate) or any other standardized article. By "standardized" article, I mean an article that can be specifically described and identified. It is only for such an article that a continuing investment of labor and of money can be made profitable. Investment of money is made not only for the manufacturing and for the maintenance of a standard of quality, but for the improvement or development of the intrinsic value and general usefulness of such article. When such article, whether it be a book or a brand of chocolate, has secured favor, it becomes profitable to make its quality known by increasing advertising outlays. Through these outlays, the knowledge and the favor of the public are secured, and the article becomes of increasing property value. This is the history of a long series of standardized articles which have secured public favor. It is also the history of a series of books, chiefly belonging to the class of reference books, which can retain public favor only by being from year to year, or from decade to decade, improved, revised and extended with new material, kept up to date for the needs of the student or of the general reader. This "good will" property has been secured and has been protected by the courts for articles which do not come under the copyright law at all. The right to protect the original investor in his investment and to prevent the public from being confused by the competition of another article or book different in quality and material, but attempting to carry the same name, has again and again been protected by the courts. A noteworthy instance is that of "Chatterbox," a name utilized to cover material collected from year to year in annual volumes prepared for the use of young people, material originating in Great Britain, which did not secure, and could not secure, American copyright. In repeated decisions, the courts took the ground that the name "Chatterbox" must not be used by competitors to cover other and different material. This was not only a matter of justice to the publishers on both sides of the Atlantic who had built up by skillful editing and advertising a property in "Chatterbox," but a protection to the public.

There is, therefore, irrespective entirely of copyright statute, a property right that can be protected under the common law, and that is so protected by courts on both sides of the Atlantic. The common law precedents in England and the United States are very largely identical. The copyright statute does not undertake to put to one side the protection accorded to articles, books or pictures, under the common law. It simply supplements such protection during the term allotted by the law, with a protection that is more specific and more easily enforced and, therefore, more effective. At the end of the copyright term, the owner of the book, or other articles, can, of course, no longer claim the advantage of the special class of protection given under the statute. The material in his volume is in the public domain, open for reprinting by any competitor. If, however, during the first term of the copyright, or some extension of such term, or after both terms have expired, the producer of the book has been able to build up a "good will" value for it, if he has served the community with a work of reference by reshaping this from decade to decade with new material, the collection of which has involved editorial outlay; if he has made known by expensive advertising the character and value of the book throughout the country, he has secured for his title a good will protection, under the common law which is entirely apart from the special and limited protection given to the book under the copyright statute. It is difficult to understand why a work that has been sufficiently valuable to be entitled to the additional protection of copyright law for a term of years should on that ground be deprived of the advantage of the continuing protection for a title which has established a good will character and a good will value.

I may present as an example the book that I hold in my hand, Putnam's "Tabular Views of Universal History." This book, compiled by my father, was first published in 1832. It was revised by my father from decade to decade in successive editions until 1872, the year of his death. It has been revised by myself in successive editions, since 1872, and the book that I now have in my hand has been brought down to 1915. There is, of course, no claim to the copyright protection of the material in this book for the editions printed back of the term of the present copyright. There is, however, a legitimate claim to the protection of the title which for nearly a century has been connected with material of continuing and increasing value for reference.

Why should this "Tabular Views of Universal History," simply because it has at different times for different editions enjoyed the protection of a copyright law, forfeit or fail to secure such protection as has been accorded and maintained for such a volume as "Chatterbox," which never had any claim to copyright protection? The purpose of such an amendment as that now under consideration is to enable B. to secure some advantage from the initiative, skill, labor and investment of A. On what other grounds does he covet the use of the title which, through the efforts of A. has come to be favorably known to the public? He wants to take the advantage of A's advertising. He wants to confuse the public with the idea that when they are buying B's material they are really securing the article that has, through A's efforts, become favorably known. For what other reason does he covet the use of A's title. There is no difficulty in creating new titles for new books.

We all know that there is much difference between works of reference. Some are comprehensive and some are scrappy. Some are the work of skilled and scholarly editors, and some are hastily put together by hack writers who have no expert knowledge of the subject matter. A buyer cannot at once determine in looking at the outside of a book, or in skimming its pages, whether or not its information is authoritative. This is a matter that may take some time to test. The buyer, therefore, is guided by the reputation of the work. He knows something about the value of the imprint of the publishers as connected with other more or less similar works. He has some knowledge possibly of the names of the editors. He knows that the work has in its successive editions secured increasing reputation. It is this reputation that the people desiring to appropriate the title want to get the advantage of. If there were not to be advantage in confusing the public and in taking the results of the other man's efforts and investment they could do just as well with a title created by themselves.

The books affected by this amendment are not many in number. They constitute but a small division of the mass of publication. The amendment does not affect in any way novels or books, the material of which remains in the continuing reprints in the original form. It affects chiefly the special class of books, works of reference, which from the nature of the material must be continually reshaped, so that after a few reprints the volume contains none, or hardly any, of the material of the original issue. If this course were not taken, the public would be defrauded.

Another class of publication affected by the bill as here worded is that of periodicals. There is, for instance, no copyright protection in the title of a weekly like the Saturday Evening Post of Philadelphia. This paper has been issued under this title for, I believe, more than a century. There is no question of protecting the material which changes from week to week. As a result, however, of the skilled investment of successive editors and proprietors, the Saturday Evening Post has built up, connected with its title an enormous good will value throughout the country. What is true of this journal is true of other journals. The value of the property is proportioned to the circulation, but the courts would always uphold, and have always upheld, the right to control that title against any appropriators who might endeavor to utilize the title for the sale of other periodical material. If there be justice in protecting the title of such a publication as the Saturday Evening Post, the same principle applies exactly to Putnam's "Tabular Views of Universal History," Bartlett's "Familiar Quotations," Cushing's "Manual of Procedure," Haswell's "Engineer's Pocket-Book," Ploetz's "Epitome of History," Roberts' "Rules of Order," "The Standard Dictionary," "The Century Dictionary," "The Book of Knowledge," etc., and to a series of important and continuing works of reference.

In so far as this bill forbids the attempt to control beyond the term of copyright the matter which has been the subject of copyright, it constitutes, of course, pure surpluses to the existing statute. No attempt has ever been made by the publishers, or by anybody else, to secure an extension of the exclusive control of the material in other publications beyond the term allowed by the law, a term which is quite sufficient as it stands.

You will understand that the material belonging to the earlier editions of continuing works of reference, that is to say of books which in order to keep them useful must from time to time be revised, reshaped and added to, has no commercial value. There would be no advantage in its republication either by the original publisher or by any appropriating publisher. The only purpose, therefore, of securing the privilege of utilizing the title that was first connected with such material is to secure the advantage of the reputation not only of the original issue of the work, but of the latest issues, the material in which is still protected by copyright, and of giving the impression to the public that this title, connected with material possibly entirely different in character is connected with a work of assured reputation.

I emphasize with you, gentlemen, the absurdity of confusing copyright law with any superfluous phrases. I ask further that you will not undertake, through the form of an amendment (which is not germane to copyright) to undermine or to assail the policy of the courts as expressed in a long series of decisions which are increasingly and consistently in favor of protecting the good will, and of heading off unfair competition, and in so doing of securing justice for the producers and of encouraging the investment of labor and money in articles of continuing and increasing value for the community.

FULL TEXT OF STOKES-DE BEKKER DECISION.

THE Stokes Company has recently appealed from the decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the litigation with Leander J. De Bekker,* two sets of questions having been duly certified to the Court of Appeals.

The exact text of the decision of the Appellate Division follows:

SUPREME COURT, KINGS COUNTY.

LEANDER J. DE BEKKER,
Plaintiff-Respondent, against

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY and THE UNIVERSITY SOCIETY, INCORPORATED,
Defendant-Appellants.

The above named defendants having appealed to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in and for the Second Judicial Department, from a judgment of the Supreme Court entered in the office of the Clerk of the County of Kings on the 22nd day of May, 1914, and the said appeal having regularly come on for argument and having been duly argued, and due deliberation having been had, and the said Appellate Division of the Supreme Court having decided that the judgment appealed from should be reversed without costs and a new trial granted, costs to abide the event, by an order entered in the office of the Clerk of the said Appellate Division on the 11th day of June, 1915, a certified copy of which order was duly filed in the office of the Clerk of the County of Kings on the 15th day of June, 1915, and a judgment of reversal having been duly signed and having been duly entered in the office of the Clerk of the County of Kings on the 16th day of June, 1915, and the plaintiff having moved in the said Appellate Division for a re-argument of said appeal and for an order directing the re-settlement of the aforesaid order of the Appellate Division dated the 11th day of June, 1915, in accordance with the opinion of the said Appellate Division and said re-argument having duly come on to be heard before the said Appellate Division on the 4th day of January, 1916, and due deliberation having been had and the said Appellate Division having unanimously modified the findings herein dated the 18th day of May, 1914, and signed by Mr. Justice Russell Benedict, and the interlocutory judgment entered thereon dated the 20th day of May, 1914, and signed by Mr. Justice Russell Benedict, and having directed that the interlocutory judgment should be modified in accordance with its opinion and as so modified, should be affirmed without costs, by an order entered and filed in the office of the Clerk of the said Appellate Division of the Supreme Court on the 28th day of February, 1916, and a certified copy of the order so entered together with the papers upon which said motion was heard having been duly filed in the office of the Clerk of the County of Kings on the 22nd day of March, 1916.

Now, on motion of Aron & Vanderveer, attorneys for the plaintiff, it is hereby ORDERED, that the findings herein dated the 18th day of May, 1914, and signed by Mr. Justice Russell Benedict, be amended as follows:—that is the Sixteenth Finding of Fact be stricken out and in its place should be inserted the following finding numbered Sixteenth:—"That the plaintiff has been damaged by the publication of the work pursuant to the contract between the defendants" and it is further

ORDERED, that the Conclusions of Law be amended and modified to read as follows:—

First—That the contract made by the defendant Stokes Company with the University Society on October 5th, 1910, was made in violation of the plaintiff's rights under his contract with the defendant Frederick A. Stokes Company and was entered into without the knowledge, consent or approval of the plaintiff herein, and was a breach of the contract of July 19, 1907.

Second—That plaintiff is entitled to judgment against the defendant, Frederick A. Stokes Co., rescinding and cancelling its aforesaid agreement with the plaintiff, dated July 19, 1907, and discharging the plaintiff from the covenants therein contained and re-vesting in the plaintiff as of the 5th day of October, 1910, the possession and control of his literary property and the copyright in and to the work known as "Stokes Encyclopedia of Music and Musicians" and all rights assigned by him under said contract.

Third—That the plaintiff is entitled to final judgment against the defendant, Frederick A. Stokes Company, for the amount found due plaintiff on said accounting, but the defendant, Frederick A. Stokes Company, is entitled to be credited upon such accounting with the sum of $600, advanced by it to the plaintiff upon the contract of August 20, 1908.

Fourth—That the plaintiff is entitled to judgment against the defendants and each of them for such damages as flow from the breach of the contract.

Fifth—That the plaintiff is entitled to receive royalties as prescribed by the contract on sales to the entry of the interlocutory judgment herein, and that the defendant Frederick A. Stokes Company, should account for the same.

Sixth—That plaintiff is entitled to judgment perpetually enjoining and restraining defendants and each of them, their officers, agents, servants and employees from publishing, printing or producing or in any way disposing of or using, or causing or suffering to be published, printed or disposed of, any copy or copies of the work of plaintiff, either in whole or in part, or any copy, adaptation or arrangement thereof, or any substantial part or parts thereof.

Seventh—That judgment be entered accordingly with costs to either party and the matter of the accounting herein be referred to Wilbur Larremore, Esquire, as referee to take and state such account and report the same to this court with all convenient speed, and that the interlocutory judgment should be modified to conform to the findings as amended as aforesaid, to read as follows:—

Now, on motion of Aron & Vanderveer, attorneys for plaintiff, it is hereby ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED, that the agreement between the Frederick A. Stokes Company and the plaintiff dated July 19, 1907, be rescinded and cancelled and that the plaintiff be discharged from the covenants therein contained and that the possession and control of his literary property and the copyright in and to the work known as "Stokes' Encyclopedia of Music and Musicians" and all rights assigned by him under said contract be re-vested in the plaintiff as of the 5th day of October, 1910, and it is further

ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED that an accounting be had and made by the parties herein and that the matter of the account be referred to Wilbur Larremore, Esquire, as referee to take and state such account and make his report to this Court with all convenient speed and for the better taking and stating of said account, that the said parties produce before the aforesaid referee under oath, all books, papers, records and writings in their custody or under their control relating thereto, and be examined under oath individually and by their respective officers and employees concerning the same, and it is further ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED that the plaintiff have judgment against the defendant, Frederick A. Stokes Company, for the amount found due plaintiff on said accounting, but that said defendant is entitled to be credited upon said accounting with the sum of $600, advanced by it to the plaintiff upon the contract of August 20, 1908; and it is further ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED that the plaintiff have judgment against the defendants and each of them for such damages as flow from the breach of said contract of July 19, 1907, and it is further

ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED that the plaintiff is entitled upon said accounting to credit for all royalties as prescribed by the contract of July 19, 1907, on all sales to the entry of the interlocutory judgment herein, that the defendant Frederick A. Stokes Company shall account for the same and that plaintiff have judgment therefor, and it is further ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED that the defendants and each of them, their officers, agents, servants or employees be enjoined and restrained from publishing, printing or producing or in any way disposing of or using or causing or suffering to be published, printed or disposed of, any copy or copies of the work of plaintiff either in whole or in part or any copy, adaptation or arrangement thereof or any substantial part or parts thereof.

CHANGE IN OFFICERS OF G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS.

At the annual meeting of G. P. Putnam's Sons on April 27 George Haven Putnam was re-elected president, Irving Putnam, former secretary, was elected vice-president, Sidney H. Putnam, former treasurer, became secretary, and Robert F. Putnam, former assistant treasurer, became treasurer. A new office of assistant secretary was created, Edmund W. Putnam being elected to fill it.

At the meeting it was announced that a new name, that of Joseph H. Aston, had been added to the list of veterans (those whose term of service with the house exceeds twenty-five years). The list of veterans is as follows: Theodore Hallett, (65 years); George H. Putnam, (50 years); Irving Putnam (46 years); Edward J. Atkins, (41 years); Charles E. Savage, (33 years); R. B. G. Wilkie, (31 years); Frederick D. Lacy, (30 years); Thomas J. Smith, (30 years); Gilbert Hennessey, (27 years); Frederic A. MacGillivray (26 years); Joseph H. Aston, (25 years).

PUBLISHERS AND BOOKSELLERS TO MARCH IN PREPAREDNESS PARADE.

SEVERAL hundred employees of New York publishing and bookselling firms will march in the monster Citizens' Preparedness Parade scheduled for May 13. Charles Scribner's Sons will have approximately one hundred men in line from their publishing, bookselling and printing departments; G. P. Putnam's Sons, forty; D. Appleton & Co. from sixty to seventy; P. J. Kenedy & Sons, forty; while all of the following will also be represented: E. P. Dutton & Co., George H. Doran Co., Dodd, Mead & Co., Bobbs-Merrill Co., Robert M. McBride & Co., Henry Holt & Co., Baker &

MEMBERS OF THE NEW YORK BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE WATCHING THE PRINTING OF "THE LITERARY DIGEST" AS GUESTS OF THE FUNK & WAGNALLS CO.

Taylor Co., American News Co., and the American Book Co. Other houses are yet to be heard from.

Practically every trade, business and profession in New York City will be represented in the long line of over 100,000 marchers who will throng Fifth Avenue from Washington Square to Fifty-ninth street from 9:30 a. m. until 10 p. m. The book-trade representatives will march in the division devoted to the paper, printing and allied trades. The idea of having any book-trade representation at all seems to have arisen with the firm of D. Appleton & Co. and W. H. Morley of that firm seems to be the man behind the idea. The book-trade division will probably form somewhere around Washington Square about 12:30. This announcement is, however, merely tentative. A meeting was held on Friday at the Harvard Club, and Mr. Morley hopes to have another meeting early in the week, at which time definite announcement of the meeting-place will be made and plans perfected for the hiring of a band and the purchase of the small flags which the marchers will carry. Owing to the fact that only a given number of men can pass the reviewing stand in the space of twelve hours the book-trade representation has been limited to 500. An effort is being made to get General Appleton to lead the publishers' and booksellers' section.

The reviewing stand will be on the east side of Fifth avenue, at Twenty-fourth street, and the review will be taken by the Hon. John Purroy Mitchel, Mayor of New York City; General Leonard A. Wood, commanding the Eastern Division, U. S. A., and Rear Admiral N. R. Usher, commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

HARPER'S WEEKLY IS SOLD TO INDEPENDENT.

Harper's Weekly has been purchased by the Independent Corporation and is to be incorporated in the Independent. The step combines two of the oldest American weeklies, as Harper's Weekly has been in existence fifty-nine years and the Independent sixty-eight.

For fifty-six years of its history Harper's Weekly was under the control of Harper and Brothers, but three years ago it was sold to an independent company, and since that time has been edited by Norman Hapgood, formerly editor of Collier's Weekly. The corporation which has relinquished control of Harper's Weekly comprised the following men: Cleveland H. Dodge, Frederick L. Collins and Norman Hapgood of New York; Charles R. Crane, Julius Rosenwald, George F. Porter, David Benton Jones, Thomas D. Jones and Franklin MacVeagh of Chicago, and Walter S. Rogers of La Grange, Ill.

During all its history the Independent has been associated with a single family. The present editor, Hamilton Holt, is the grandson of the founder, Henry C. Bowen. Two and a half years ago Mr. Holt was joined in the ownership and management of the Independent by William B. Howland, who was for twenty-three years publisher of The Outlook, and his two sons, Karl V. S., and Harold J. Howland, who had also been associated with the Outlook in the advertising and editorial fields.

BOOK-TRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

GOOD TIME IN STORE FOR BOOKSELLERS ATTENDING CHICAGO CONVENTION.

THE Honorable Albert J. Beveridge has accepted the invitation of the Committee on Arrangements to speak at the banquet of the American Booksellers' Association in Chicago on the eighteenth, and will make the principal speech. Wilbur D. Nesbit will be the toastmaster. He is well known as the president of the Forty Club of Chicago, former president of the Indiana Society—which has pulled off some of the greatest dinners ever held in Chicago—and is noted as a wit. The committee is sure that he will make things go. Miss Maria Thompson Daviess and Emerson Hough will also speak. A fourth speaker is to be secured. The committee is now in negotiation with a man who, if he will consent, will unquestionably make a hit.

The following publishers will be the hosts of the delegates to the convention at a luncheon on Wednesday at the La Salle Hotel, the occasion being the weekly meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce: The Book Supply Company, M. A. Donohue & Company, F. J. Drake & Company, Forbes & Company, Jordan & Company, Laird & Lee, Methodist Book Concern, the Pilgrim Press, Presbyterian Board of Publication, Rand, McNally & Company, The Reilly & Britton Company, P. F. Volland & Company, W. A. Wilde Company. After the luncheon, A. C. McClurg & Company will take the delegates on an automobile ride through Chicago's parks, stopping at the South Shore Country Club for refreshments, which will be served with the compliments of the publishers named above. Arrangements are being made for reservations for a theatre party for Wednesday night.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will announce the winners in the Everyman's Library contest about June 1.

GABRIEL WEIS was the purchaser of "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War" at the Coggeshall sale last week, not George D. Smith, whom we credited last week with the purchase of this $3,800 set of volumes.

THIS YEAR everyone rehearses his pet subject or theory in its relation either to Shakespeare or the European war. Using the former topic as his maypole, Dr. Kunz weaves around it an interesting talk on precious stones. "Shakespeare and Precious Stones" is a Lippincott publication.

A KNOWLEDGE OF BUSINESS TERMS, commercial forms and similar matters is the one thing which many business women, of entirely adequate brain power, lack. This month Stokes is publishing a hand-book which should help women in business not only to be efficient but to show their efficiency—"What Every Business Woman Should Know," by Lillian Cecilia Kearney.

MATERIAL TO THINK OVER as you march in the Preparedness Parade may be found in two new Reilly & Britton books—"Our Military History" by Major General Leonard Wood and "Imperiled America" by John Callan O'Laughlin. Gen. Wood points out the costly errors of our past military policy, and Mr. O'Laughlin, a former Assistant Secretary of State, presents a carefully thought-out picture of what is waiting for us in the future.

"A HONEYMOON EXPERIMENT" by Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Chase is coming from the Houghton Mifflin Co. on May 13, all ready for the June brides. But the brides who are planning tours de luxe will not get any suggestions from this authentic record of a unique honeymoon, for the authors spent those golden days in a strange city looking for work! Their story is interesting from a sociological point of view, as well as most readable.

"ENGLAND'S EFFORT" (Scribner) by Mrs. Humphry Ward, with a preface by Joseph H. Choate, is a study of England's home part in the war, of how the different classes and different sections are co-operating with the men in the field, of the attitude of the rich and the poor—particularly of the women, and of the part the women are playing. The war's effect on London, the prison camps, the use of country houses as hospitals, and similar matters are intimately described, showing the influence of the war on the every-day life of England.

THE FOLLOWING OFFICERS were elected by the Authors' League of America at their annual meeting on April 27: Winston Churchill, president; Theodore Roosevelt, vice president; honorary vice presidents, Reginald de Koven, Augustus Thomas, Hamlin Garland, John Burroughs, Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, and Brander Matthews; secretary and treasurer, Eric Schuler; Executive Committee, Ellis Parker Butler, Thompson Buchanan, Louis Joseph Vance, Rex Beach, Leroy Scott, Kate Jordan, Arthur I. Keller, George Creel, and George Barr Baker.

"SELF-RELIANCE," by Dorothy Canfield Fisher, is to be published shortly by The Bobbs-Merrill Co. Under the name of Dorothy Canfield, Mrs. Fisher is known to novel readers everywhere, her "Bent Twig" having been one of the past season's real successes. But as a sociologist Mrs. Fisher is inclined to hide her light. She says she is not an educational expert and that her books on child training are for the most part a simple putting-into-a-book of the things every sane mother knows to be true, but which we are all apt to forget in the hurry and press of modern domestic life.

THIS MONTH brings Hugh Walpole's latest book, "The Dark Forest," to be published by Doran. The search for It obsessed them, the thing they had to find, to come face to face with, these members of the Russian Red Cross. They loved strongly, and laughed, and chattered, and hated and sweated—all under the shadow of It. And they found It, one and all. The ultimate thing; the place where all horror is; where there is no more for the soul to bear; where it should be annihilated in the flood of chaos, obliterated—and is not. Here is revealed what is in war that regenerates.

NOTHING DEFINITE has resulted during the past week from the efforts of the New York Trade Press Association and other organizations to check the new photo-engraving price scale. There was a hearing before District Attorney Swann on April 28, at which representatives of the Photo-Engravers' Board of Trade were present, but nothing definite was accomplished, we understand. The New York Trade Press Association has adopted a resolution condemning the action of the photo-engravers. The New York Tribune denounced the photo-engravers' stand editorially as "a flagrant attempt at price fixing."

JAMES NORMAN HALL, a young American who saw nearly a year's service in the trenches in Northern France, and whose experiences are recorded in his book, "Kitchen's Mob," will be the speaker at the Lord & Taylor bookshop at 3 p. m. on May 8. On Monday, May 15th, Henry H. Saylor, editor of Country Life in America, will speak on the subject of "An American Country House"; and an additional entertainment will be given on May 17th when Frank Alvah Parsons, president of the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts, and author of "Interior Decoration," will talk on "Books and Interior Decoration." It is interesting to note that several of the lectures given at the Lord & Taylor bookshop are being repeated before the patrons of Hochschild Kohn & Co., the large Baltimore Department Store. This week, Dr. Leonard Barron, editor of The Garden Magazine, talked on gardening books, old and new, and next week Clayton Hamilton, author of "On the Trail of Stevenson," will lecture on the subject which is the title of his book.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ASTORIA, ORE.—The book and stationery store of M. Greenberg was damaged by fire a few weeks ago, the loss being covered by insurance.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Missionary Review Publishing Co., Inc., a magazine devoted to missions, has been incorporated for $50,000, by R. E. Spear, D. L. Pierson, W. McDougall, 34 Lenox Road, Brooklyn.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—The Stone & Barringer Book Co. are offering creditors 33 1/3%.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Frederick J. Drake & Co. have removed their offices and stock room from 1326 S. Michigan Boulevard to 1006 Michigan Ave.

LAWRENCEVILLE, N. J.—The Lawrenceville Book Store, Scott & Shreve, proprietors, has gone into involuntary bankruptcy.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.—Whitlock's Book Store will erect a two-story building in the rear of its store at 230-232 Elm street. The new building, which will add some 4000 square feet to the 7000 feet now in use, has been contemplated for some time owing to lack of room in the store proper. It will provide some very badly needed office space and will also house the typewriter repair department which has been cramped for room for quite some time. There will also be space in the new building for a part of the stock room. At present the stock room is located in the second floor of the store building and some 3000 feet of space in the building at the corner of York and Elm streets.

NORTHAMPTON, MASS.—The Smith College book store, which is to open next fall at Northampton, Mass., is incorporating with a capital of $25,000. The board of directors is Mary Byers Smith, '08, president; Emma P. Hirth, '05, vice-president; Marion E. Dodd, '06, secretary and general manager; Edith E. Rand, '99, treasurer. The alumnae advisory committee is Mrs. William H. Baldwin, Jr., Mrs. James A. Webb, Jr., Miss Martha Wilson. There also will be a students' advisory committee. The store will be called the Hampshire Book Store. The authorities of the college are not connected with the enterprise.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Ernst Richers, publishers representative, has moved into new quarters at 228 Grant Ave., directly adjoining the White House. He has opened an exhibition room in which advance material and the new books of a number of publishers will be on exhibit throughout the year for the convenience of local and visiting buyers, as well as for the librarians and literary editors. A representative stock of the steadily selling books will be carried to accommodate the trade of the Pacific Coast cities.

WASECA, MINN.—It is reported that Miss Alice C. Breen, stationer and bookseller, has been succeeded by William Hargefeld and L. W. Kulzer.

Mason, Grace Sartwell, and Hilliard, J: Northern. The golden hope; il. by W. A. Hottinger. N. Y., Appleton. c. 362 p. pls. D $1.35 n.

East meets West in this struggle for water in the California desert. Among the settlers was Eric Wheat, who saw a wonderful future in a system of irrigation. His fight for water rights was opposed in a system of graft and scheming by a faction who stopped at nothing to gain their ends. This is a background for the story of a loyal woman, a man bigger than his biggest temptation, and the thirst for gain that cramps men's souls.

In the little country town it was just life that Georgiana longed for after her full years at college. Her invalid saint of a father watched over her struggles to hold her head high in spite of the slender family purse. Mr. Jefferson came to the country while writing a book, and boarded with them. When he went away, she felt it was very cruel that she had learned to love him and that nothing had come of it. It turned out that he was a great surgeon and had been called away to operate, and that much was to come of their acquaintance.

Advertising Rates.

One page	$25 00
Half page	14 00
Quarter page	7 00
Eighth page	4 00
One-sixteenth page	2 00

The above rates are for unspecified positions. Special rates for preferred positions (full pages only).

Higher rates are charged for the Summer Reading, Educational Number and Christmas Bookshelf, and for the monthly Book Review supplement sections.

Advertising copy should reach us Tuesday noon—earlier if proof is desired out-of-town. Forms close Thursday night.

Under the headings of "BOOKS WANTED" and "BOOKS FOR SALE" book-trade subscribers are given under their own names five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertising for specified books, not more than one title to the line, in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding one hundred lines a year, a maximum of fifty lines under "Books Wanted" and fifty lines under "Books for Sale," and if over five lines are sent for either department in any one issue, or fifty lines for each department within the calendar year, the excess is at ten cents a line. Bills for this service will be rendered monthly. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withholding the privileges of advertising should occasion arise, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

"Books Wanted" must be designated by actual title, not by "any."

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Under "HELP WANTED" or for other small undisplayed advertisements, the charge is 10 cents a nonpareil line. No reduction for repeated matter. Count seven words to the line.

THIS IS THE AGE OF THE SPECIALIST

In order to turn a manuscript into an attractive book, correct typographically, with appropriate paper, proper margins and appropriate binding, the services of the specialist in the manufacture of books are required.

The results secured from over fifteen years engaged exclusively in the manufacture of books convince us that it pays to specialize.

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in APRIL, 1916

This Reference List enters the books recorded during the month under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in CAPS, Q, O, D, etc., books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, 12°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire publishing output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following

MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i.e. GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religions, denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.

THE SENSATION OF 1916

BEHOLD THE WOMAN!

THREE PRINTINGS

By T. EVERETT HARRÉ

"The most talked of novel in America"

Balto. Sun.

Eminent People and Leading Critics
Endorse the Publishers' Statements
Regarding This Great Novel

AMELIA E. BARR, the popular novelist:
"It is amazing. I know nothing like it but 'Quo Vadis' and 'Salambo.' It is wonderful."

MRS. O. H. P. BELMONT, the Distinguished Leader of New York Society and President of the Women's Political Equality Association:

"'BEHOLD THE WOMAN' is a book all would do well to read. It is a great artistic handling of the age in which Mary, the courtesan, its heroine, lived . . . Its great value is that it will make us women realize we have work before us."

REV. DR. PERCY STICKNEY GRANT, Rector of the Church of the Ascension, N. Y. City:
"An extraordinary story which will undoubtedly find hosts of readers. It is a striking picture of a disturbed time and a sensuous people."

"Of impressive strength."—N. Y. World.

"Vividly colored."—N. Y. Times.

"A masterpiece,—it is assured a niche in the literature of all lands."—Kentucky Post.

"Full of dramatic action,—and has a vital modern subject."—Newark Eve. Star.

"Stirring tale of redemption."—Chicago Herald.

"Excepting 'Quo Vadis' perhaps no historic novel even approaches it in literary value."—Phila. Record.

"Tremendous in conception."—Boston Globe.

"This American novelist, because of this book, joins the little band of immortals."—Phila. North American.

MRS. MINNIE MADDERN FISKE, America's great actress:

"From beginning to end I found 'BEHOLD THE WOMAN' gripping and thrillingly interesting—it is picturesque, vivid and DRAMATIC throughout."

GEN. THEODORE A. BINGHAM, of the United States Army, and former Police Commissioner of the City of New York:

"A POWERFUL AND STIRRING TALE, which I read with great interest, and which I hope will have the success it deserves."

AMELIE RIVES, The Princess Trou-

betzkoy:

"I find 'BEHOLD THE WOMAN' most interesting, full of color, and marked by a deep sincerity. The love with which it is done and the amazing prodigality of detail make it a most unusual volume. The character of Mary is tragic and moving."

Recommend and sell this novel to a few of your customers — they will create a big sale for you.
